RE: Proposed Crystal Geyer Bottling Plant Project

Comments on Draft Environmental Impact Report (State Clearinghouse No. 2016062056)

Attention: Ryan Sawyer AICP and Siskiyou County Board of Supervisors

I request that all Siskiyou County Board of Supervisors, any and all members of the Analytical Environmental Services who are currently assisting in making final EIR recommendations, that each individual be required watch the documentary "Blue Gold" there is plenty of time to view the film in entirety, as it is directly related to the projected operations at the Crystal Geyer Bottling Plant and the intent of the international company who owns this factory.

Wikipedia states "Blue Gold: World Water Wars based on the book Blue Gold: The Fight to Stop the Corporate Theft of the World's Water Witten by Maude Barlow, and Tony Clark". The Synopsis states "Blue Gold: World Water Wars examines environmental and political implications of the planets dwindling water supply, and posits that war in the future will be fought over water". Release date October 2008..This film received the Audience award for best Environmental Film at the Vancouver International Film Festival, the Ecology Now! Award at the European Independent Film Festival, and The Jury prize for best documentary feature at the Newport Beach Film Festival.

I simple asking for 89 minutes of your time, before you make a final decision regarding Crystal Geyser Bottling plant that is projected to use nearly 30 million gallons of prestigious pure alpine water from the Mount Shasta Volcanic Aquifer on an annual basis with no term agreements.

I request alternative to this site be considered and/or limiting the operations at this large scale industrial water consumption used in this bottling plant operations. We must consider down scaling Crystal Geyer Bottling Plant operations in order to maintain a healthy water supply to all the millions of people in the state of California, and entire ecosystems and watersheds that support, wildlife, forests and wet lands

Thanks for watching this informative documentary,
